MINIBAR

When high-quality products, excellent services, cutting-edge technologies, and competitive rates are no longer enough to fully win over the customer, it becomes necessary to move away from traditional strategies and search for new ones that appeal more to emotions than reason. During their hotel stay, guests must feel satisfied not only in their physical needs but also in their emotional and psychological ones.

The hotelier faces the challenging task of making their guests' stay as pleasant as possible. This is why we have created a minibar product line, made with the highest-quality ingredients and designed with emotionally impactful and experiential packaging. These products not only enhance the guest experience but also significantly improve the hotel's positioning and the average room revenue.

INFUSIONS

There are many ways to provide truly impeccable service: small gestures, details, or simple moments with great emotional power, made special by the engagement with each individual guest.

Whether it's a pleasant welcome moment, a treat to accompany breakfast, or a way to enhance the in-room experience, infusions are the perfect solution to contribute to the well-being and comfort of your guests. This is why we have created a line of infusions, consisting of high-quality teas, herbal infusions, and tisanes, all presented in packaging with a high emotional and experiential impact. Ideal for hotel rooms, tea corners, meeting rooms, spas, and more.

pyramid Filter and Traditional Filter

The pyramid-shaped tea bag is filled with infusion using a filling machine and then sealed with ultrasonic technology, without the addition of any type of glue. The filter material is transparent, allowing visibility of the products inside, creating a visually striking effect.

biodegradable Filters and Compostable Filters

Respect for the environment and the concept of a circular economy have become significant topics in consumer habits worldwide. Our company exclusively uses pyramid filters that are certified as biodegradable and compostable, made from PLA (polylactic acid), a material derived from the synthesis of natural plants. After use, these filters can be disposed of in organic waste, fully respecting the environment.

We produce all our infusions using only certified, next-generation filters that have zero emissions and are designed to cause no harm to humans or the environment, adhering to the principles of the circular economy.

ACCESSORIES

In the hospitality industry, the experience is the product. The ability of a hotel to offer an excellent customer experience to his guests is, to date, the only way to remain imprinted in the guest's memory and ensure that the latter repeats the experience of stay experienced becoming a loyal customer. The fact that the hospitality industry must provide memorable and pleasant experiences is therefore at the basis of the mission of every hotel, but this is not an easy goal to achieve.

The aspect that makes it difficult for hospitality managers is the continuous evolution of guests' needs: the concept of "excellent customer experience" keeps changing according to the new standards acquired by consumers, often dictated by new social trends or from what other brands on the market do, even if they belong to a different one.

To summarize, the experiences offered by hotels must evolve based on guests' desires, which in turn change with technology, trends, and the customer experiences of other brands they interact with. Initially, it was about having a comfortable bed, a clean room, and a basic set of guaranteed services. However, the quality expectations of guests have progressively increased, as they seek to explore, change, and exercise their right to choose. The concept of travel has undergone a metamorphosis, shifting toward the more emotional and experiential aspects of travel and stays.

CANDY & CHOCO

One of the biggest mistakes a hotelier can make is to think of the customer as merely a passing tourist who he will never see again. And consequently treat it a bit like a number, leaving out the details and forgetting that retaining hotel customers is the basis of success. Winning hoteliers adopt the opposite attitude, believing that every guest will, sooner or later, come back to visit them. This is why it's important to give customers a reason to return, starting with the little things.

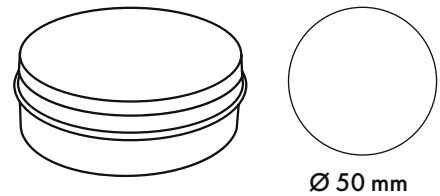

The Candy & Choco line by Your Amenities offers various solutions and flavors to pamper your guests in the way they prefer: whether it's a sweet welcome gift, a thoughtful surprise in their room, or a cuddle before departure. All in customizable packages to increase the identity and memory of your accommodation facility.
